Congratulations!

BioPrime AgriSolutions has entered into a commercial collaboration with The Mosaic Company, a global leader in crop nutrition, to integrate its proprietary biological solutions into fertilizer products aimed at improving nutrient use efficiency and crop productivity.

The collaboration focuses on incorporating BioPrime's biologically active additives, developed through its proprietary SNIPR™ platform, into Mosaic's crop nutrition solutions. The integrated products are designed to support enhanced plant health, better nutrient absorption, and improved resilience under challenging environmental conditions.

BioPrime's solutions have been validated across multiple fertilizer grades and are developed for seamless integration into existing fertilizer manufacturing systems without altering nutrient profiles. The partnership aims to provide farmers with sustainable and efficient agricultural solutions while improving outcomes from existing fertilizer usage.

This collaboration marks an important milestone in BioPrime's commercialization journey and highlights the growing recognition of biological solutions in advancing sustainable agriculture and climate-resilient farming practices.
